

You Taught Someone Younger

Describe a time you taught something new to a younger person.

You should say:

who you taught

what you taught

why you taught it to this person and explain how you felt after doing this.

Part 3

Learning (or Teaching) In General

- Do you think a person needs to be especially trained in order to teach skills to other people?
- What are some differences between good trainers and ordinary people?
- How do (or should) a good trainer teach a skill?
- Do you think a person needs to be motivated to learn a new skill?
- Would you say most students (high school & university) are motivated to learn?
- Can you suggest some ways to motivate a person to learn something?
- Do you think having curiosity is important when learning something new?

Skills in General

- What are some examples of the skills that adults typically have today?

- (Similar to above) What are some examples of the skills that adults typically need to have today?
- Do you think that driving a car is a skill that most people should learn?
- (Similar to above) Do you think that driving a car is an important skill to have?
- Are the skills that people have today different to the skills that people had in the past?
- Can you suggest how the skills that people will have in the future will be (or, might be) different to the situation today?
- (Similar to above) What do you think will be (or might be) the most important skills to have in the future?
- Are there any particular skills that you want to (or, would like to) learn?

Teaching Skills to Children

- Do you think it's important for children to learn new skills?
- (Similar to above) Do you think it's important for people to learn skills in their early childhood years?
- What skills would you say all children need to (or, should) learn?
- What skills do children have to (or, should) learn before they start school?
- Who do you think is more important for the teaching of skills to children?
- Do parents and school teachers usually teach the same skills to children?
- What can a parent or teacher do to make a child more interested in learning?